

Diabetes education programs in the Region

In this section the educational plans and programs of various countries in Latin America and the Caribbean are described. The program descriptions include information on the following subjects: background, program goal, specific objectives, target population, teaching methodology, materials, and time frame for completing evaluation of the program. Program descriptions vary in their level of detail in accordance with the information that was received when the document was prepared.

