

Global Environmental Health and Sustainable Development Innovation Collaborative Webinar series

*Organized by the Institute of Medicine (IOM) with the support of the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO) and the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS)

The Global Environmental Health and Sustainable Development Innovation Collaborative will host a 3-part webinar series, under the coordination of the Roundtable on Environmental Health Sciences, Research, and Medicine (EHSRM Roundtable). The webinars will focus on the United Nations post-2015 development agenda process—a process that will advance a new development agenda for the world as the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) reach the target date of 2015. The aim of the webinar series is to engage members of academia, government organizations, professional societies, and students at schools of public health in dialogue around health, economic development, equity, sustainability, and environmental challenges and to stimulate fresh thinking on possible solutions.

Webinar Series 1 - 2012

—

Webinar Series 2 - 2013

—

Upcoming Event: Webinar 3, Series 2, July 25 2013

PAHO - IOM Webinars

Written by Administrator2

Friday, 19 October 2012 14:25 - Last Updated Friday, 28 June 2013 21:35

For more information, please visit

<http://www.iom.edu/Activities/Environment/EnvironmentalHealthRT.aspx>