There are a growing number of falsified medical products that claim to prevent, detect, treat or cure COVID-19.

Falsified medical products can carry significant health risks.

Many internet sites sell falsified or substandard medicines.

Taking any unapproved medicine for COVID-19 is dangerous.

If you detect or suspect falsified or unregulated medical products, notify the health authorities in your country.