Tobacco use and second-hand smoke exposure are risk factors for six leading causes of death in the world

Deaths attributable to tobacco in 2016

Tobacco use is a common risk factor for cardiovascular diseases, cancer, chronic respiratory diseases, and diabetes

For every person who dies because of smoking, at least 30 people live with a serious smoking-related illness.

Over 15%* of all deaths globally and 19% of noncommunicable disease deaths are due to tobacco *21.4% of all male deaths!

Tobacco affects more than just health of people – it also impacts on the health of the economy and also the health of the planet

Over 80% of the 1.3 billion tobacco users worldwide live now in low- and middle-income countries.

In developing countries, smokers spend up to 30% of their income on tobacco, meaning less expenditures on nutrition, education and health care.

Economic

The economic costs of tobacco use are substantial and include significant health care costs for treating the diseases caused by tobacco use and the lost productivity that results from tobacco-attributable morbidity and mortality.

- Help Parties prioritize their actions to fulfil their obligations under the Convention;
- Elevate the profile and visibility of tobacco control issues, including the Convention itself, internationally and domestically;
- Manage increased demands and limited resources while ensuring effectiveness of the work of the Convention Secretariat.
