The future of antibiotics depends on all of us.

Vaccination protects us against infections, reducing the need for antibiotics which helps limit antibiotic resistance.