Alliance for the Elimination of HIV in the Americas

United for a future without HIV

The elimination of HIV in the Americas is possible. The Region has the knowledge, leadership, and tools needed to achieve it.

The Alliance for the Elimination of HIV in the Americas is a platform that brings together governments, partners, and communities to align efforts, mobilize resources, strengthen accountability, and accelerate progress toward elimination.

Why the Americas?

Pioneers
in the offer of antiretroviral treatment.

14 Countries free
of mother-to-child transmission of HIV and syphilis.

Collective strength: partners, donors, and allies from all sectors, alongside an organized civil society and empowered communities.

Three pillars to reach elimination

Detect Early

Timely and expanded diagnosis

- Rapid testing and self-testing.
- Earlier diagnosis.
- Services close to communities.

Prevent More

Expansion of long-acting PrEP

The combination of:

- Oral PrEP
- Long-acting PrEP

regional models suggest that this combined strategy could reduce new infections by more than 70% by 2030.

Treat Better

Optimized treatment and integrated care

- Immediate initiation of antiretroviral therapy
- Sustained viral suppression to reduce transmission, lower health system costs, and improve quality of life.

Access for all

The elimination of HIV requires addressing the structural conditions that drive its transmission, reducing stigma and discrimination, and ensuring access to quality services for all.

Alliance contributions

- Multisectoral regional coordination
- Aligns individual efforts toward a common goal
- Capacity to mobilize resources
- Promotes access to innovation
- Establish a formal process to recognize progress towards HIV elimination
