Fathers and mothers of newborns are not visitors in the Neonatal Care Unit; they're an essential part of the baby's 🧑🏻‍🍼 care team.

Family-centered care = healthier babies, happier families, and reduced stress and anxiety.

#Prematurity

Every baby deserves skin-to-skin right from the start. It's extra important for premature babies 🧑🏻‍🍼, helping them bond and breastfeed. Skin-to-skin contact is a family right.

#FamilyCenteredCare

The engagement of families in the hospital care of their 🧑🏻‍🍼 newborns:

- ◆ improves health and development
- ◆ promotes bonding and breastfeeding
- ◆ encourages a better experience
- ◆ reduces length of stay
- ◆ generates confidence in the health teams

Babies should stay with their mothers as long as possible and practice skin-to-skin contact so that breastfeeding can begin as soon as possible. Breastfeeding, coupled with loving care, provides lifelong benefits.

Health teams should support families of 🙄 premature babies by making it easy for them to visit the ICU anytime, with no restrictions or schedules. Support and empathy are essential for respectful and quality care.
